

Q. No. 2 Part (i) Rasool (S.A.W.) And Youth.

Islam gave importance to youth. Prophet (S.A.W.) also valued them and accept their opinion to fight Battle of Uhud in an open area. He prefer them over elders and showed love towards the youth. Youth should consider Rasool (S.A.W.) their role model as he ^(Prophet) spent his youth in an sublime way and was a pure soul. Due to his honesty Rasool (S.A.W.) get the titles of Al-Amin and Al-Sadiq. Thus his life is an living example for the youth and coming generations to follow in all the ways of life.

Q. No. 2 Part (II) Ans: Rasool (S.A.W.) always valued youth and he often prefers them over the most respected elders. In a decision of choosing between fighting within the city or in an open field, Rasool (S.A.W.) asked the youth and they were in favor to fight the battle openly. Rasool (S.A.W.) agreed with them and considers their opinion. Similarly, he ~~chose~~ ~~or teenagers Osama bin Zaid (R.A)~~ over the ~~respected elders~~. This shows that youth was given a great self esteem by Rasool (S.A.W.)

.....

Q. No. 2 Part (III) Ans: Rasool (S.A.W.) is a role model for the youth. He sets an example for them by his true beliefs and pure actions. In the days of his youth, Rasool (S.A.W.) never indulged himself in any bad company, bad habits or vices. He was a noble soul or with pure heart. He always speaks truth and because of his honesty he was entitled as "Al-Amin" and "Al-Sadiq". So his life is a living example for the youth to follow to lead a normal, pious and pure life.

Q. No. 2 Part (iv) Ans: Rasool (S.A.W.) is an living example for the youth. He spent his youth days in a sublime and pure way. Even before prophethood, he never became a part of wrong practices or vices. He was a noble and pure soul even before prophethood. He was honest in his dealings and never tell a lie. He was a young man, having pure heart and pure soul.

Q. No. 2 Part (v) Ans: Rasool (S.A.W.) is a role model for the youth and coming generations. because he was a pure and noble soul. He was an honest man. It is necessary for the youth to follow the teachings of Islam and Rasool (S.A.W.) in order to model their lives according to the principles laid by Islam, brought by Rasool (S.A.W.) In order to live and pious and pure life, one should adhere Rasool (S.A.W.) by acting upon his Sunnah. One should follow Rasool (S.A.W.) example during his youth and even after that, to purify his heart and soul. from sins.

Q. No. 2 Part (vi) Ans: Rasool (S.A.W.) was a pious and noble soul even before prophethood. He never indulged himself in any wrong practices or vices. His honesty was exemplary. Even his opponents believed him as he was honest in his dealings, and brought their matters to ^{him} to be solved. Due to his honesty, Rasool (S.A.W.) earned the titles of "Al-Sadiq" and "Al-Amin", which means trustworthy and the true, the one who speaks the truth and is honest.

Q. No. 3 (a) Ans: (i) The term pitch-and-toss refers to a game of chance, in which a person risks his all earnings or money for the achievement of task. The term implies that a great ^{person} is never afraid to risk his all earnings but is always ready to do so. The term heap of winnings refers to ~~staking~~ collecting all the winnings in a bundle form and presenting them to a risk. It implies that a great person collects his all earnings or winnings and is ready to risk them.

(ii) The rhyming scheme of the given stanza is "ABABCD CD".

(iii) The two poetic devices used in the given stanza are:

• Synecdoche:

In the given stanza "heart and nerve and sinew" are synecdoche as apparently these are three but actually refers to the whole body of a person.

• Personification:

In the given stanza "the Will which says to them" is personification. Will is given human traits, so it is personified.

Q. No. 3 (b) Ans: The basic components of the plot are:

- Exposition
- Rising action
- Climax
- Falling action
- Resolution.

I have read a play "Progress" by St. John Ervine in which Exposition the author introduces the study of Professor Henry Corrie who seems very excited for his new invention. Corrie rejoices over his invention as it can destroy a large area in a few seconds.

Rising action of the play denote the introduction of a formula to Mrs. Meldon, who is already in a state of sorrow and grief. Mrs. Meldon gently reminds Professor Corrie that his invention can lead to the death of hundreds of young men like her son Eddie.

Climax of the play happens at the moment when Mrs. Meldon tries to convince him to destroy his formula. Professor Corrie ignore her words and gloats over his invention and the ^{fame} fame and wealth.

Falling action ^{appeal} denote in the form of strong debate between Mrs. Meldon and Professor Corrie.

It paved way to the resolution when Mrs. Meldon couldn't control herself and killed Professor Corrie by stabbing him with a knife. Though she doesn't want to do so but she finds it essential to save humanity.

Q. No. 4 (Page 1)

Corruption

Corruption refers to placing something in a wrong place or not fulfilling the rights and duties properly. When there is a power, corruption takes place. Corruption can also be defined as a wrong use of a power or an authority.

When someone is given an authority, he is required to fulfill his duties, if he would not do so, he would be a corrupt. Corruption includes every wrong practice and a practice which is not keeping in with his authority. When someone commits a dishonest practice, he commits corruption.

Corruption, generally, is not only related to politics. Though it is very common in politicians. They use their power in a negative way and are not honest with the country and its people. Nowadays, corruption is deeply rooted in a society. It is an evil to society and harms the functioning of society.

Many people, rather than politicians, are indulged in corruption. For example, shopkeepers are committing corruption by selling their products ~~at~~ ^{at} higher rates. They ~~sp~~ tell a lie about its market rate. On the other hand, the one who sells milk, adds water to it and ~~present~~ ^{present} it before people by saying that it is a pure cow milk.

There are many evils present in a society and the mother of all evils is the corruption. ^{whom} People commits sins means they are not honest with their religion and every dishonesty is a corruption. Every evil deeply rooted in a society relates to corruption. It has a dominance over the other evils.

Q. No. 4 (Page 2)

Moreover, ^{where} corruption is present in the people, it is also present in the ^{or} Government or the authorities. In order to build schools, colleges, universities or any other institutes, funds are taken from the citizens by the Government. But the public money is misused by the Government or authority. They take the funds but never fulfill the purpose. They cast it aside.

However, practicing wrong acts and not fulfilling the duty, is actually corruption. Authorities or leaders make unfair use of their power. If they commits a mistake or a sin, legally they aren't punished or prisoned because they use unfair means to defend themselves and use their power to get rid of it.

Islam teaches us to be honest, trustworthily and dutiful. It strictly prohibits corruption or wrong acts and dishonest practices. Rasool (S.A.W.) ^{had} ~~have~~ always taught us to be honest and pure in dealings. Because if honesty is lacks, the whole society suffers alot. Islam teaches us the ways to become an exemplary person and a citizen by acting upon the ~~teachings~~ teachings of Holy Quran,

Q. No. 4 (Page 3) Sunnah and Shariah

In order to eliminate all the evils that are deeply rooted in a society, strict actions should be taken by the Government. Corrupt or the criminals and sinners should be legally punished. In addition to that, strict rules for the authority or power holder and leader should be issued.

There is a need to make a healthy society free from vices, wrong practices, misdoings and corruption. It can be made possible only if some important reforms and regulations are practiced. Every corrupt should be removed from the authority and only an honest and trustworthy should be elected.

Lastly, corruption is an evil and it needs to be abolished. If the country is free from corrupt leaders and people, it will make progress and by leaps and bounds. In order to develop a healthy society, it is necessary to eliminate and abolish every evil from the society by all means.

“Country is not a place to live but to learn to live”

Q. No. 5 (a) Ans: Goldilocks used to live with her parents in a cabin near the forest. One day she decided to go for a walk. She straggled down a lane that lead to the forest and came across a cottage. feeling intrigued she knocked on a door but no one answered.

.....

Q. No. 5 (b) Ans: When our biggest client cancelled the contract, it was ~~like~~ a bolt for the blue with our barracks against the wall, we felt backed in a corner. But our sales team was able to run like the wind and deliver a stellar presentation, securing a good deal. We breathed a sigh of relief and moved forward, not the mustard grateful not to have missed the boat.

Q. No. 5 (c) Ans: Mother said to her son that she had been noticing that he was not paying heed to her advice these days. She further asked if something was bothering him. The son replied that not a particular thing but his exams were approaching and he had not prepared well. The Mother replied that whenever she need, she could help him in that regard.

Q. No. 6 (Page 1)

To: The Principal.

From: A.B.C.

08 May, 2025

Subject: Effects of pollution on Human Life.

Introduction:

As a seminar is organized in a college by "Pakistan Environmental Protection Agency" on a topic of effects of pollution. I am writing about it in my report. Pollution is an increasing problem of daily life. It is affecting people badly.

Report:

Pollution is injurious and have many bad effects. There are many types of pollutions, like noise pollution, environmental pollution, etc. The noise in an environment irritates and disturbs the human life. Noise can be of vehicles, factories, trains and motorbikes, etc. The people who live near train stations are mostly effected by the noise pollution. This type of pollution disturbs the mind and lead to distractions.

Environmental pollution includes pollution of vehicles, factories, etc. These pollutions effects the human nervous system leading to many health problems. The pollutions of these vehicles or factories contains harmful acids which can cause many problems. It leads to many diseases.

Q. No. 6 (Page 2)

Water pollution is another type of pollution. People throw garbage and stones in water which makes the water polluted. Similarly, industries or factories release the acidic water into seas or oceans, and when people drink that water, they get many deadly diseases. ~~the~~ Pollution makes the human life miserable. It harms the normal living of individuals in a society. It doesn't matter what type of pollution it is, ^{every type} it is harmful and ~~hardly~~ leads people to suffer from illness.

If the environment is not pure, people cannot breathe in it properly. If they breathe in a polluted environment, they suffer from throat diseases, cough, flu and many other problems.

Conclusion:

Pollution is a serious problem which is increasing day by day. If it does not get stopped, it will lead to the increase of diseases or ultimately death. There is a need to reduce the increasing pollution level in the environment by all means. Only then we will be able to ^{eliminate} reduce it.

Suggestions and Recommendations:

- (I) In order to eliminate pollution, there is a need to spread awareness among people.
- (II) People should be known of its effects and ~~other~~ outcomes.

Q.No.6 (Page 3)

(iii) In spite of chancing a car, one should prefer a cycle or walk to reduce pollution from the environment.

(iv) Industries and factories should be build in such areas where there is less or no living or houses.

(v) Industries and factories should be legally punished by the Government in case of releasing acidic and impure water into seas.

(vi) Awareness and instructions to reduce pollution should be spread through the exposure to mass media.

(vii) Making or constructing vehicles should be stopped.

Signed
X.Y.Z.

Q.No.7 (Page 1) Ans: She stays motionless, with gaze rivet upon her child, her husband enters the room, and without noticing her, goes to a table and begins to search among some papers which covers it.

